WOMEN NEED SWAMP-ROOT

Thousands of women have kidney and bladder trouble and never suspect it. Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, the result of kidney or bladder disease. Prompt delay starting treatment, Dr. Nimmer's Swamp-Root, a physician's prescription, obtained at any drug store, may be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions. Get a medium or large size bottle immediately from your drug store. However, if you wish first to test the great preparation, send for a small bottle, for a sample bottle. Write to Dr. J. C. Local Organizations Are Arranging Mass Meeting to Hear Their Report

Friends of the women who picketed the British ambassador's house at Washington to the interests of the Irish Republic are arranging for a mass meeting in Boston to hear their reports. Committees from various Irish organizations in Boston and Cambridge will meet tonight at No. 239 Beacon street, Boston, and arrange the details of the meeting, which is to be held in Egleston Hall at a time to be announced later.

In addition to the meeting, the women have been extended to Mrs. Thomas M. Sullivan, of Boston, and Mrs. M. Kathleen Brennan of 17th St., Ireland, near the Irish Republic. The meeting was arranged for Saturday night week of 1919. Miss Brennan is in this country on a tour of the Irish Republic.

Miss Maura Guin of Boston street is the committee, together with Miss Margaret M. Ryan, another picket. Thirty men and women who worked for the success of the Irish bond certificate drive in Ward 13, South Boston, rolled up a total of more than $20,000, have formed a permanent organization with headquarters at the former exemption board room. The headquarters will be available at all times for information on the Irish bond drive.

Bond subscribers are invited to enroll in the new organization. Temporary organization was organized today by the election of William M. O'Brien, president; Henry Wagner, secretary; and William Wagner, treasurer.

Announcement is made by the American Association of the Central Council of Irish Society Association; the meeting will be held hereafter on the first Sunday of each month, on Saturday evening, May 22, the Buffalo county division of the American Association of the Central Council of Irish Society Association. There will also be a short street parade prior to the speaking exercises. A drive for new members is being made by officers of the State branch of the Irish National Foresters' Beneficial Society.

Police to Find Chauffeur Who Once Attacked Victim

Providence, R. I., May 6.—"I wish the police would look up a man whom I know Otto had some trouble with," said Miss Violet Eklund, sweetheart of Oliver Eklund, murdered last night, to an American representative. "I think this is worth following up," she continued, "and probably, nobody in the world knows it except me. For he always told me all his little worries."

On the stand, at the Providence court, a taxi driver pulled in front of Oliver's car, who had first place. Oliver stepped from his machine.

"Come now," he said to the man, "this place is mine. You know you have no right to cut in ahead of me. Now I'll give you five minutes to get out, and if you don't, I'll give you and I will have to take off your coat."

"The fellow drew out immediately, for he knew that Otto, though nice to everybody, still would not be frightened. That was all then. A little later Otto and passengers in his car and stopped over to see to something."

ORDERED STAY STAY.

The stand man up, knocked him over in the gutter, behind his back, as he stepped, and then kicked him when he was down. Otto got up, looked about, and couldn't see the man. He had to go then, as his people were waiting to start. He told me of it the next day.

"I'll make him sorry for that yet," he said to me. And he would have. That was all then. A little later Otto and passengers in his car and stopped over to see to something."

Sinn Feiner Phones to King George

London, May 6.—Learning the password supposed to be known only to members of the royal family and a few members of the royal household, a Sinn Feiner has just succeeded in talking with King George over the telephone.

The King was sitting in his writing room at 4 in the afternoon when the telephone rang. He answered the call, and the following dialogue ensued:

"Is this his majesty?"
"Yes, who is speaking?"
"My name is O'Riordan. I want to know if his majesty approves allowing Irishmen in English prisons without trial."

After a short pause, the King replied that the subject was an impossible one to discuss over the telephone with a stranger. Then he rang off.

The password has been altered.

SUFFRAGE GAINS IN DELAWARE

State Senate Ratifies Measure and Women Predict Victory in House

Dover, Del., May 6.—Suffrage was ratified by the Delaware State Senate by a vote of 11 to 6. Only one Democrat, Lewis M. Price, of Kent County, voted for the ratification resolution. Two Republicans, Edward R. Brown and J. C. Palmer, both of Sussex County, voted against the measure.

The Senate's action was the first real victory the suffragists have won since Governor Townsend called the Legislature into special session, March 27.

A bill of the House prior to the Senate vote showed 15 members openly for ratification. What effect the Senate action will have in swelling this number to the 28 necessary for a majority is problematical. Suffrage leaders, however, are predicting victory today.

Franklin E. He charges Morrill with having conspired with others to commit the crime.

WRITES 'J' AND IS ARRESTED

Peculiarity in Penmanship Leads to Charges of Larceny in $10,000 Case

His handwriting of the letter "J" led to the arrest of John Dorne of Chestnut street, Dorchester, an escaped convict, on charges of larceny of $10,000 worth of property from Boston firms. He was held for a hearing May 11, bonds being furnished by his father, Frank Dorne.

Indicted by the Roxbury Express Company, it is claimed that Dorne took call slips from express offices in the city and called for the goods.

A run by chief inspector Larry Whelan of the Express Protective Association led to the arrest. Whelan put in a false call. When Dorne wrote the initial letter of Johnson, which, according to the police, was of general formation, the arrest was made.

Dorne pleaded guilty to stealing stolen suits valued at $650 from Singer, Snow Company, No. 11 Beach street, and of several valued at $18,125 from Yarn & Co., No. 611 Washington street. The latter were recovered in a store on Dudley street, where, it is alleged, Dorne had sold them for $25.

In this connection George Avelis, proprietor of the Dudley street store, was arraigned in Roxbury Court charged with receiving stolen goods. Sentence was suspended on condition that he make restitution.

The police said that Dorne would be charged with additional thefts.

Scientist Permitted Daughter to Die

Attorney Charles F. Choate, Jr., appearing as counsel for Arthur F. Postbury of San Francisco in the Supreme Court today, in answer to the bill of the trustees of the Christian Science Publishing Society, to include Postbury and others in a permanent injunction, declares the proceedings was in violation of the religious rights and liberty of the defendants.

The attempt to raise the religious issue was immediately quashed by Judge Pierce, who sustained the argument of Attorney Whipple.

The court declared that he was not interested in the manual of the Christian Science Church, nor its bylaws. He said that the question was whether or not the defendants, by their conduct, interfered with the religious case. The bill brought by the trustees seeks to include Frederick A. Bane and James A. Henningson, attorneys of Chicago, with Postbury, in a permanent injunction, which has within its scope nearly a score of prominent scientists to restrain them from embarrassing the business of the trustees and force their resignation, which, they allege, would make their appeal to the court futile and useless.

Attorney Choate said the defendants were merely following the duties of the manual of the church, which was their religious law, in advocating that scientists cancel their subscriptions.

"I cannot see people unite to support the manual of their church," he said. "In their own personal liberty left. Surely these gentlemen are justified in asserting that right. To them their manual is supreme. To restrict them in following it would be restricting their religious liberty."

Attorney Sherman Whipple in reply said:

"The law of the land is supreme and the mandates of the court must be obeyed, otherwise we cannot live under the law. Shall the directors of this church be allowed any more than anyone else to defy the courts?"

Attorney William A. Morse characterized the feeling against the trustees as a "rising tide of protest." To this Attorney Whipple said: "This rising tide of protest is nothing but a stimulated propaganda to defeat the administration of justice. They have no right to interfere with a religious clock."

$25,000 SUIT AGAINST KIDDER, PEABODY & CO.

Joseph E. Gould has brought suit in Suffolk Superior Court for $25,000 against the members of the firm of Kidder, Peabody & Co., $25,000 more that the defendants acknowledge of the larceny of bonds, and issued his arrest.

WANTS U.S. GOLD FOR BERLIN DEBT

Financial Writer Believes Indemnity Money Should Come From Bases Here

By EVES GUYOT.

Famous European Financial Writer. When talking for the International Club today.

Paris, May 6.—The most logical method for settling an even a financial catastrophe is to appeal to the bankers of the United States to take up the entire debt to the allies on a long-term arrangement.

The Germans declare their willingness to pay the allies everything possible. If Germany is able to pay the allies what later is considered sufficient then she is obviously able to pay American bankers substantial interest on the suggested loan.

It is only by negotiating between business men that a catastrophe can be avoided. The question of indemnity is not merely financial; it is really political.

France cannot consent to fix the total amount of German indebtedness because the treaty of Versailles does not authorize it and the treaty of Versailles is law so far as France is concerned.

If Germany can float an immense loan in the United States it would solve France's exchange situation immediately, because she would then be dealing with American dollars and could obtain much-needed credits.

I am afraid the allies are approaching the forthcoming conference at Spa without sufficient preparation. What is needed is a final expression from the allies which would say to the Germans: "This is our last word. Take it or leave it."

We cannot wait indefinitely for Germany's payments to France. France needs capital now and must have the entire amount of reparations within fifteen years. Therefore the sooner payment is made the better.

AIM TO HALT SPREAD OF TUBERCULOSIS

Declaring that the prevention of tuberculosis was of far more importance than the cure, Dr. Edward O. Ellis, president of the Massachusetts Tuberculosis League, addressed members and visitors today at the Twentieth Century Club.

"Too much emphasis has been placed on the fight against the active tubercular germ," Dr. Ellis stated, "and not enough on preventive health measures to insure the maintenance of normal resistance to disease. Young children must be safeguarded from the habits and conditions in which the germ breeds. All means which serve to promote healthful and hygienic conditions are now our chief concern. Every instrument of prevention is of the utmost importance."

This Is Boys' Week

Perhaps You Don't Know It. What Should the Week Mean?

With Mr. Vanderlip for chairman, and many other well-known men on committees, we are now in the middle of Boys' Week, which is divided into boys' day, boys' day in churches, in the schools, athletics, industry, at home, and lastly, Saturday, boys' day out-of-doors.

Newspapers are urged to write editorials about Boys' Week. The fundamental idea, it seems, is once more to abolish "unrest," make the boys into "good Americans" and "keep America, American."

We seem to do a great deal of worrying about America in these days. Perhaps it is necessary; it ought not to be.

In the opinion of this newspaper, the best work that could be done in Boys' Week would be to teach American boys respect for the foreigners that come here to help build up this country, as the fathers or grandfathers of American boys once came as foreigners to do their share of the work.

Teach boys to look with respect on an old woman with a shawl on her head and a bundle of wood on top of the shawl, and you will be teaching them to be good Americans.

Teach boys to sympathize with and help a man who speaks English badly, and not to laugh at him, and you will be helping them to be good Americans.

Teach boys that the Poles among us come from a land for which thousands gladly gave their lives for liberty, long before the word liberty was heard in this country.

Teach them that Italians whom they see working represent an ancient, magnificent civilization, to which we owe much of our education, intellect, art and civilization generally.

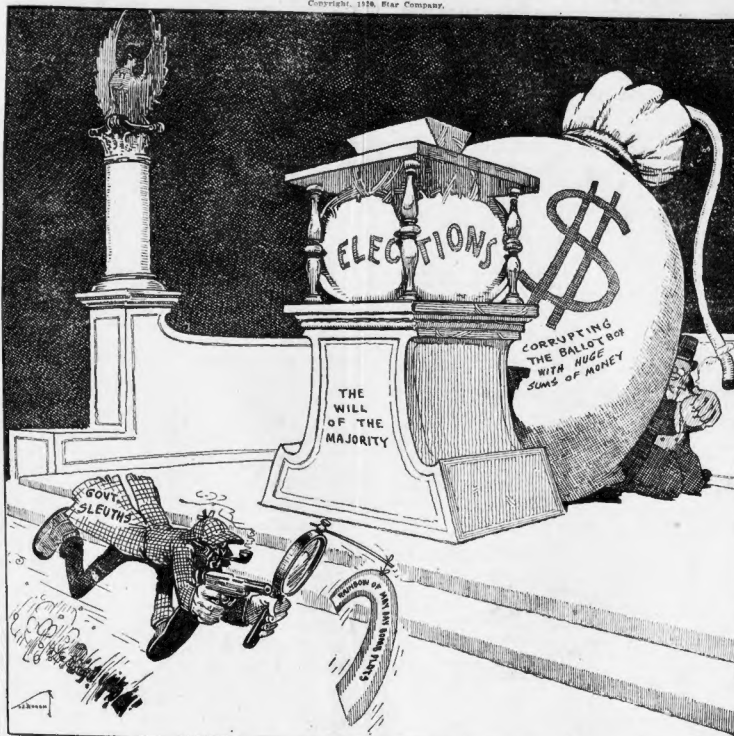

Teach the boys to respect all nationalities, to respect especially hard labor, which makes comfortable life possible for the few. And teach the boys humility. Teach them that whether they be Americans or foreigners, they are nothing as long as they have done nothing.

Teach them that merely being an American is in itself nothing. A bunch of pigweed by the roadside is American. It grows on American soil.

To be a real American, you must do something in America for America. Until they have done that, teach the boys to be modest. After they have done it, they will be modest, knowing how little a man can do.

Above all, avoid giving them the impression that merely to be American is a virtue in itself, for it is not.

The Real "Bomb Plot"

THE RELIGION TAUGHT BY OVERALLS UNIONS

By Rev. Roland D. Sawyer

THE PHILOSOPHY OF SIMPLICITY

"Blessed are the unassuming, they shall inherit the earth"—Jesus.

It is the unselfish heart that leads to simplicity in habit, while the selfish heart loves display and luxury. Jesus and all great souls have taught that we should abandon the artificial and seek only the simple and useful. Movements for social reform, religious organization, educational advance—all these need our aid, but their success depends upon many working together. Let us not forget that each individual, without waiting for any other, can attain that life of serene simplicity which gives happiness. The things that man really needs are within his reach. Wholesome food, comfortable dwellings, suitable clothing, schooling, books, domestic joys, the sweet odors of roadside and field, these are the things really worth while, and they are within the reach of all.

Christian People

We call ourselves a Christian and democratic people; but Christianity and democracy mean freedom from formalities, getting away from the artificial and back to the simple. Simple dress, simple food, simple manners, simple living, a frank and friendly people—these make a really Christian and democratic nation.

A man wearing denim overalls and a woman simply clad may be a valuable and wholesome sight among a street full of pleasure-mad folk. A six-dollar suit of khaki worn to rebuke an $80 outfit on the back of an ordinary man, or a $200 coat on a working girl, may be a uniform of as great honor as when worn into Europe to overthrow autocracy, for both are worn for the same purpose, to designate the wearer as one who wants democracy.

Simple Dress

The underlying philosophy of simple dress is that which Jesus taught when he said, "A man's life consists not in that which he owns, for a man's life is valued according to what he can make."

Simplicity teaches that the aim of life is not ambition, wealth-seeking, power, dress, display, till one be worn jaded and drops into the welcome grave; but that every man and woman may find a sufficient ambition in life, in seeking to live in simple usefulness and enjoyment.

To earn an honest living, live a contented life, be an unassuming fellow human being, respect the rights of others—this is the philosophy which underlies the movement of protest against display.

To the Editor

Railroad Clerks

Editor Boston American:

Are you aware of the number of railroad employees who have applied for your editorial of Friday, May 1st, under the title of "The Silliness of the Railroad Clerks"? New the position of the railroad clerk (the white collar crowd) is not understood by the majority of those who are "lucky" to be in the majority—in fact, I might say all of the majority have received all the benefit of the increase of 25% since December, 1917, and at the present time in the office in which I am employed there are about forty clerks, and of that number only eight receive over $30.00 per month, and I do not receive $20.00. A year ago we asked Washington for a raise, and your editorial states how we have been fed on promises until the feeding has now got to come or there will be a change for action. This is the sentiment of the majority of clerks and was shown some time ago when a strike vote was taken all over the country. Now do not condemn the railroad clerks if such a thing does take place, for while the job had patience, the clerks have to spend the rest of the same thing than he ever thought of having "ONE UP THE WHITE COLLAR CROWD."

Best Boston.

Denial of American Rights to Residents of Washington

There are five States with less population and twenty-two States which pay less Federal taxes than the District of Columbia. Its inhabitants pay more taxes per capita than are paid by the inhabitants of thirty-six States.

Yet its permanent residents, approximately half a million, have no vote. They are victims of taxation without representation. When the District of Columbia was carved out of Virginia and Maryland to become the seat of the national government no one foresaw the large dimensions of the present city of Washington. It was thought that at most a few thousands would be attracted to the capital for a time and then return to the States from which they came.

The spoils system held sway. Rotation in office—even small clerkships—was the rule.

That hundreds of thousands would one day be anchored in a permanent civil service with every local interest that attaches to citizenship anywhere, entered no mind.

The Constitution in Clause 17, Section 8, Article 1, had vested control of Federal districts in Congress. Hence the Congress framed a plan of administration for Washington, placing executive control in appointive commissioners and legislative control in its own two chambers. Today these half million citizens are ruled wholly by outsiders. They do not vote for the President, who names their commissioners. They have no voice in the Congress which enacts their municipal laws. Not one of their local officials is elected by themselves.

They are the most disfranchised community in the world. They justly resent this discrimination and have asked for a better political status.

Bills are pending in Senate and House looking to a constitutional amendment to provide full representation in the Congress and in the electoral college.

But special interests are holding them up. It is easier for the special interests to get what they want out of a few non-resident and changing Congressmen and out of the appointees of a President who comes and goes and has little time for municipal problems than it would be to control a local government vested in the people. This holdup has taken the form not of outright denial—for which no good argument is available—but of evasion.

Hearings are postponed and the bills are kept slumbering in apathetic committees. A thousand excuses can be invented for delay.

We do not see how we can believe in the American principle of representative government, justify this evasive denial of local rights.

The Congress constitutionally should prompt it to start the people.

Mary Pickford's Own Story of Her Love Tragedy

MARY PICKFORD'S own story of her wretched married life with Owen Moore will be told in the Boston Sunday Advertiser.

The popular movie star will make astonishing revelations of her sad honeymoon with a bridegroom who, she swore in court, was intoxicated most of the time. After her repeated efforts to win back her husband despite frequent denials, Mary gives the humiliating confession that Moore told her she "didn't apply to him any more."

Now that Mary is married to Douglas Fairbanks and like a princess living happily with him in her Los Angeles palace, the cruel attorney-general of Nevada is trying to set aside her divorce, accusing this fascinating actress of throwing a hypnotic spell over the valid judge and misleading him by false testimony. If the decree is cancelled and "Our Mary" becomes Mrs. Owen Moore again, what about her union with Fairbanks and well, it might all be made into a scenario for a nine-reel feature picture, of a minor following might be sample:

REEL I.—On the day the honeymoon begins in Havana, Cuba, the handsome bridegroom leaves his weeping bride for a three-days' drink.

REEL VII.—By extraordinary good luck Mr. Owen Moore drops out of the picture just long enough to let Mary's lawyers serve on him the necessary divorce.

But read the whole testimony giving Mary's reply to the charges in next Sunday's paper.

William J. Bryan declares the Republican party is making its fight over MEN and not over PLATFORMS in the 1920 race for the Presidency. The platform, he says in the fourth of his series of articles in the Sunday Advertiser, seems to be lost sight of, notwithstanding the very radical differences in the candidates. "The masses are betrayed when legislators change purposes," he says. "Voters can dictate platform when they elect delegates. Protesters will be at the G. O. P. convention, why have not their victims queried the candidates? Let the people speak now and rule party policy."

A half million Jewish settlers must be placed in Palestine at once if the Zionist movement is to succeed, declares Max Nordau, characterized by Israel, as well as the most important in the world. When the Arabs, now in the majority, realize that the Jewish, restless, thrifty, better administration and justice, that their lands will not be taken from them, their present marked hostility will cease, he says.

The barbarous slave market, the buying of beautiful Christian girls, the murders with torture in the harbor, which the allies will no longer permit in Constantinople, are to be perpetuated in the new Turkish Empire in Anatolia.

IT ISN'T CRIMINAL TO SWITCH

You have expressed opinions and I have you have supported them you will not admit that you have changed opinions. You think you are showing stability when it is only stubbornness. You fear someone would think you weak and vacillating to change. The wisest man make mistakes, but they are big enough to admit it and welcome an opportunity to put themselves right and give the other fellow credit for his more practical ideas. In this way big men learn something, which the little fellow never learns and so he remains a little fellow.

What a bore is the man who thinks he is always right and shows criticism.

Johnson's Great Victory
His Enemies Near-Sighted

Hiram Johnson has captured California by more than 150,000.

It is Johnson's State and it is Hoover's State.

Hoover's friends and others opposing Johnson said the test would come with the California vote, and it has come. How do they like it? What do they think about it?

What does the Republican Old Guard think about it, the Old Guard that never surrenders to anything but Wall Street?

The greatest primary vote and the greatest primary majority ever known in America have been given to Johnson by California.

California knows Johnson. He was born there, has always been there, has been Governor and Senator. They have tested him, they know him.

The New York Evening Post is not exactly a Johnson newspaper—a member of the Morning Journal, the Post, and that firm does not own Johnson.

The Post calls Johnson's victory "The greatest popular vote ever cast in California." It has added, "ever cast in the United States."

It also says of Johnson as Governor: "It was Johnson who took opportunity by the hand and ousted the whole railroad machinery." Johnson did that and many other things—California showed their good memories in their vote.

Such men as own the New York Evening Post dislike Johnson and will fight his nomination with the usual weapons. They are going to need, above all things, good government, laws enforced, and Johnson the man to give the country law enforcement.

He threw out the dishonest railroad gang that ruled California. And he threw out just as swiftly the I. W. W., just as he did the mad folk. A six-dollar suit of khaki worn to rebuke an $80 outfit on the back of an ordinary man, or a $200 coat on a working girl, may be a uniform of as great honor as when worn into Europe to overthrow autocracy, for both are worn for the same purpose, to designate the wearer as one who wants democracy.

Two hundred of them, a big committee, walked into Johnson's office where he was seated at his desk. This, condensed, was the conversation:

"What do you want from me?"

"We want your Governor."

"I hoped that that would be your answer, and you shall not be disappointed. I will see that work is found for you at once. Every man is entitled to work if he is willing to work."

"Well, Governor, there is no man in California who is willing to work. We don't want to work. We are out to start a public movement and to start a public movement."

"That will do. It was afraid that might be your idea. It is two o'clock now. Every man who is not out of town by four o'clock will be in jail at four sharp. I have the men ready to attend to that. Good day."

It was not a long conversation, but it had good effect on the men that didn't want work and who wanted to frustrate those willing to work. They were all gone at four o'clock.

Mr. Lloyd, a rich Philadelphia, is dead, leaving the "world's best collection of Robinson Crusoe."

He had "Robinson Crusoe" in innumerable editions and in languages, French, Gaelic, Japanese, German, Yiddish, etc. He had children's editions and adult editions, greatly valued because the leaves have never been torn.

Deeply interested in the world have been in this collection of his best-known books, having spent so much time in prison for writing, in telling what he believed to be the truth.

In these days of "Americanism" many might well read the "True-born Englishman" and his defense of William III. against "leaky" Dutch blood.

His "True-born Englishman" would have said exactly and it only mentioned that when the English took the Irish at the Battle of the Boyne, the English were led by the Dutchman William and the Irish by the Dutchman King—who was first out of the fight, galloping rapidly to the rear.

You can buy Swinburne's admirable book on Blake for two or three dollars or all of Blake that is worth while for a trifling sum. But that doesn't interest the strange, Jack-o'-lantern mind that wants a book unpublished, perhaps never to read it, only to own it, or the other mind that collects books, when the money is spent, would buy tens of thousands of well-printed copies of "Robinson Crusoe" for little boys that read them.
